

CC Drone Pilot Program Still Flying High

The Culver City Police Department is using drones to assist with surveillance in a variety of emergency situations.

Culver City's unmanned aerial vehicle (UAV) or drone pilot program is off to a flying start.

In the past 22 months, the Culver City Police and Fire Departments have used drones 50 times in perimeter searches for felony suspects, fires and crime scene operations, among other uses, according to police officials. The use of drones with high-powered cameras is becoming common place for police and fire agencies across the county.

At its recent meeting, the Culver City Council discussed a report on the UAV pilot program, which has cost $107,000 so far, and approved a staff request for $13,000 to continue its operation for the next 14 months.

Most councilmembers were supportive of the program and the "evidentiary value of drone footage" but some wanted staff to provide more "detailed data on drone usage for more transparency."

Proposed and formed in 2019, the drone program assist first responders address rapidly unfolding emergency incidents. It was instrumental in the arrest of 20 suspects, city officials said.

The drones were used 24 times for perimeter search for armed and/or felony suspects, 6 times for crime scene operation (including shooting and traffic accidents), 4 times for fires, one time for disaster management (bomb threat) and 15 times for support search/arrest warrant operation, according to police officials.

The city currently has 8 drones – which cost $85,687 – and 16 drone pilots on staff, all of whom are licensed through the FAA.

"Although we often have pilots on duty when a UAV is needed, there are times when a pilot is called in from home on overtime or held over their regular work hours on overtime for emergency incidents," the report said. The total overtime cost for the 22-month pilot program was $33,075.

The program, including the drones, pilot training and pilot overtime, will cost $120,266 through next year, city officials said.

A monthly UAV utilization log is published in the Culver City Police Department's Monthly Report, which can be viewed at www.culvercitypd.org.

Covid-19 Cases, Deaths Declining in Los Angeles County, Culver City

Experiencing the same decline in the rate of infection as Los Angeles County, Culver City recorded 92 new cases of coronavirus and 6 deaths in the past two weeks, the County Health Department has announced.

As of press time yesterday, the number of local residents with Covid-19 rose to 2029 cases, representing only a 4% increase in the past 2 weeks. Deaths related to coronavirus inched up to 77 in Culver City. More than half of the deaths occurred in nursing homes and assisted living facilities.

County-wide, the total infected now stands at 1,174,340 with 19,514 deaths. More than 90% of people who died had underlying health conditions. On Thursday, Public Health Department reported 2,873 new cases of Covid-19 and 153 deaths.

Health officials said the 7-day average of daily cases continues to decline in the county; as of February 9, Covid-19 cases declined by 85% to an average of 2,230 cases per day. Also declining is the average of daily deaths. This number peaked at 229 on January 10, and declined to an average of 91 deaths per day on February 9, representing a 91% decrease.

There are 2,757 people with Covid-19 currently hospitalized and 31% of them are in the ICU. The total represents a 60% decrease from January 8 when hospitalizations peaked above 8,000. The positivity rate has also fallen from 15% in December to 5% yesterday.

"While we share cautious optimism with others, we remain concerned that actions over Super Bowl weekend could lead to another increase in cases starting next week if individuals were not taking precautions," said Barbara Ferrer, PhD, MPH, MEd, Director of Public Health. "Each individual and business doing their part to contribute to this decline continues to be the key to reducing transmission in L.A. County."

Nearly 1,541,000 doses of COVID-19 vaccine have been administered across the county, Public Health said. Of those vaccinated, 399,642 people have received second doses. This means 5.1% of the County's population of 16 and older have now been fully vaccinated.

Public Health also announced it is opening up eligibility for the vaccine to three additional sectors starting on March 1: education and childcare, food and agriculture, and first responders and law enforcement. The county is working with partners to address challenges in vaccinating the more than 1.8 million workers that will be eligible for vaccine, officials said.

Covid-19 vaccine supply remains very limited, Public Health said. For information about vaccine appointments in L.A. County, when your turn is coming up, to sign up for a vaccination newsletter, and much more, visit: www.VaccinateLACounty.com.

Fatal Car Crash at Olympic & Overland

A woman was killed and a teenager was hospitalized in a West Los Angeles car crash Wednesday, an LAFD spokesman said.

Witnesses called 911 about a two-car collision in the area of West Olympic Blvd. and Overland around 5:15 p.m., the Los Angeles Fire Department said in an incident alert.

A woman driving one of the vehicles was trapped in the wreckage and was deemed “beyond medical help,” according to the department. She was pronounced dead at the scene.

The driver of the other vehicle was a teenage boy, who was taken to an area hospital with moderate injuries.

A third vehicle was stopped near the scene of the crash but was not involved in the collision, the department said.

Aerial video showed two damaged vehicles, one of them appearing to be completely crushed.

Olympic was closed for 2 blocks in each direction for several hours, while the LAPD investigated the fatality collision.

State Bar Sued Over Test Scans

A civil rights group has threatened to sue the California State Bar. The suit alleges that bar exam facial scans designed to identify test takers, are in fact just another example of systemic racism.

A prominent civil rights group is threatening to sue the State Bar of California unless it agrees to stop using facial recognition technology to prevent cheating on online bar exams, which the group says discriminates against women and people of color.

“It is by now well-established by experts in that field that FRT is disproportionately inaccurate in identifying women and people of color,” the Lawyers’ Committee for Civil Rights Under Law said in a Feb. 10 letter to California bar officials.

Until the Flood

digitalstage/premium-vents/matthew-bourne-romeo-and-juliet/. A production from 2019, never before seen in Los Angeles, Matthew Bourne's "Romeo and Juliet" is a passionate and contemporary re-imagining of Shakespeare's classic story of love and conflict. Set in the not-toodistant future in 'The Verona Institute' and mysteriously confined against their will by a society that seeks to divide and crush their youthful spirits, our two young lovers must follow their hearts as they risk everything to be together. A story about 'repressed emotions and teenage discovery is no better told than by the young', said Matthew Bourne. Inspired by this and as part of New Adventures' ambition to support the next generation of on-stage talent, Romeo and Juliet featured the finest emerging male and female dancers from around the UK. Directed and choreographed by Matthew Bourne, the design is by Lez Brotherston, lighting is by Paule Constable and sound is by Paul Groothuis with new orchestrations of the Prokofiev score by Terry Davies, played live by the New Adventures Orchestra. Los Angeles Clippers vs. Miami Heat Next Men Up

By Michael Johnson

Over the past couple of seasons, the Los Angeles Clippers have been touted as having the best bench players in the league, and so they did. The team won three sixth Man of the Year awards the past three years with Lou Williams and former Clipper Montrezl Harrell. Plus, Patrick Patterson, JaMykal Green, Shai Gilgeous-Alexander, Maurice Harkless, and others have done an outstanding job coming off the bench over the past few years. Harrell, Green, Alexander and Harkless and some of the other players were all traded away, even coach Doc Rivers was fired last year after seven years with the team. So, talk of the best bench in the league belonging to the Clippers, was, well not so much this season. Well after watching last Monday's contest on Presidents Day at the Staples Center, between the L.A. Clippers and the defending Eastern Conference Champion Miami Heat, which the Clippers won, 125 to 118 without the services of four of their five starters, leads this writer to think that the Clippers have managed to assemble the best bench in the league, again.

Missing from tonight's competition for the Clippers were Kawhi Leonard, Paul George, Pat Beverly and Nicolas Batum. Three all-star players, and the fourth one a defensive specialist. The Clippers' starting five consisted of Marcus Morris Sr., Terance Mann, Serge Ibaka, Reggie Jackson and Lou Williams, all bench players except for Serge Ibaka. All of the starting reserves, except Reggie Jackson scored in double figures; in-fact six Clippers scored in double figures, and Lou Williams had a double-double, 18 points and 10 assists.

The game was a close contest throughout, However, separation came in the last minutes of the third quarter and the fourth quarter. The difference makers were, you guessed it, the reserves, Mann, Williams, Morris, Amir Coffey, Ivica Zubac and Luke Kennard, they combined for 112 of the Clippers 125 points, with Morris scoring 32 points. Morris was lights out from long range, hitting 6 of 8 three-point shots, he was on fire and the Heat had no answer for him. But Morris was not ing, out working him to establish his position under the basket. Mind you, he was playing against Bam Adebayo, an NBA All Star and defensive specialist. Big Zu effectively spread out his big 7-foot frame, like a big immovable Oak Tree, sealing off his defender, and once he received the entry pass, displayed excellent foot work, enabling him to get to the rim for several dunks. Time after time he hammered home rim shaking dunks, and he was equally locked-in on defense with a couple of blocks and altered shots. He played like a true NBA Big Man.

This writer has had the opportunity to watch Big Zu since his rookie days and his maturation is coming to fruition – he played like a full-grown man. I wouldn't be surprised to see Zu's minutes increase, and who knows, maybe we'll see him in the starting line-up soon, especially if continues to play with the ener-

Chargers and Rams set their sights on Super Bowl 56 at SoFi Stadium in 2022

By Bill Seals

With the Tampa Bay Buccaneers victory at Super Bowl 55 in Tampa, another successful NFL season is over and in the books. Next year's Super Bowl will be staged at SoFi Stadium in Inglewood, and in anticipation of this big event coming to Southern California.

line in the NFL in 2020. The Chargers averaged 3.8 yards per carry running the ball, which ranked 30th in the NFL in 2020. Herbert was sacked 32 times in 15 games and hit a lot more than that. What made Herbert special this season was ability to throw under pressure. Pro Football Focus rated Herbert No.1 in the NFL when passing under

1,000-yard rusher in his 12 seasons in Detroit and the defense was usually among the worst in the NFL. The Lions have not won a division title since 1993. This Rams, who have made the playoffs three of the past four years, will be the best team he has ever played for at the NFL level. What Stafford did do was put up some great numbers in his career.

Stafford is 16th all-time in NFL history in passing yardage at 45,109. He is 16th in touchdown passes with 282. He is tied for 7th all-time in 4th quarter comebacks with John Elway at 31. Most importantly to the Rams, Stafford has one of the strongest arms in the NFL and will be able to stretch the field vertically, something that has been missing from the Rams passing attack in the past few years under Goff.

The Rams adding Stafford is a win now move. They have a Super Bowl in 2022 in their home venue and they want to be in it representing the National Football Conference (NFC). But SoFi Stadium is also the home venue for the Chargers, and they would like to be playing in the Super Bowl in 2022, representing the American Football Conference (AFC).

The Stafford acquisition could also be seen as a response to the development of Justin Herbert, who is now the face of the Charger franchise. If Herbert plays well and takes the Chargers to the playoffs on a regular basis, the Chargers could become a hot ticket in town, whenever the Covid-19 pandemic is behind us.

Herbert had eight 300-yard passing games last season (a rookie record) and will be the kind of player that Southern California fans love to watch, in the tradition of Charger greats Dan Fouts and Philip Rivers. Even with Stafford's statistical accomplishments and his rocket arm, a strong case can be made that Herbert is the better quarterback.

So, the Fight for LA battle is on and hopefully it will culminate in the Rams vs the Chargers on February 6, 2022, on Super Bowl Sunday. It would be great for the City of Los Angeles and it would be good for football in Southern California. The Raiders were the only Los Angeles franchise to win a Super Bowl and they have always had a huge following in Southern California, in some respects due to that championship. It is time for the Rams or the Chargers to knock them off that LA Super Bowl Champion Pedestal.

Chargers rookie quarterback Justin Herbert will return next year to play for a new head coach. Herbert set rookie passing records in the 2020-21 season. Hopefully he can lead his team to the Super Bowl in his home stadium.in 2022. (Photo/Chargers) the Los Angeles Chargers and the Los Angeles Rams are both in the process of upgrading their football teams to hopefully be participants in next year's Big Game.

This will be the first Super Bowl played in Southern California since January 26, 2003, when the Tampa Bay Buccaneers defeated the Oakland Raiders, 48-21 at Qualcomm Stadium in San Diego, California. The last Super Bowl played in Los Angeles County was on January 31, 1993 at the Rose Bowl in Pasadena, when the Dallas Cowboys crushed the Buffalo Bills, 52-17.

The off-season coaching carousel and quarterback carousel has affected both franchises. The Chargers jumped onto the coaching carousel quickly, with the firing of head coach Anthony Lynn and the hiring of Rams defensive coordinator Brandon Staley as their new head coach. Staley has put together a diverse and impressive staff since his hiring.

The Chargers job was attractive because of Charger quarterback Justin Herbert, the NFL Offensive Rookie of the Year. Herbert is just 22 years of age (he turns 23 in March) and has a bright future ahead of him. If the offense was led by Tyrod Taylor, their starting quarterback in the first game last season the Chargers are just not that attractive. Herbert gives the Chargers a legitimate chance to win a Super Bowl, the only question being, how soon?

According to Pro Football Focus, the Chargers had the worst offensive pressure, which he did often behind last season's offensive line.

Despite having the worst offensive line in the NFL, Herbert thrived in 2020. He was second in the NFL in deep touchdown passes with 12, the most ever produced by a rookie. PFF had a passing grade of 91.2 for Herbert on passes over 20 yards, one of the better grades in the NFL. With a good offensive line, an improved defense and a little bit of luck, the Chargers could be in the Super Bowl next season.

But the Chargers need to stay healthy, particularly safety Derwin James, who has only played in five games the past two seasons, and they need better talent on the offensive line to become a legitimate Super Bowl contender. The Chargers go into the offseason with nine draft picks and according to Overcap.com they are currently $24 million under the salary cap, which gives them some salary flexibility to sign free agents.

The Rams jumped onto the quarterback carousel, trading quarterback Jared Goff to the Detroit Lions for quarterback Matthew Stafford. The Rams also sent to the Lions a 2022 first round pick, a 2023 first round pick and a 2021 third round pick. Goff had struggled the past two seasons and his inability or unwillingness to throw deep had turned the Rams offense into a dink-and-dunk passing attack.

Stafford played 12 seasons with the Lions and played well but never was able to get his Lions teams past the first round of the playoffs. He only had one

UCLA's Close Named Finalist for Naismith Coach of the Year

The Michael Price Family UCLA Women's Head Basketball Coach Cori Close has been named to the late season watch list for the Werner Ladder Naismith Women's Coach of the Year award, the Atlanta Tipoff Club announced Tuesday.

Close was one of 15 head coaches to be named a top-15 finalist for women's coach of the year recognition. She joined Arizona's Adia Barnes and Stanford's Tara VanDerveer among the Pac-12's honorees, as the Pac-12 tied for the most coaches on the list with the Big Ten and SEC.

Close has led the Bruins to a 12-3 overall record and 10-3 mark in Pac-12 play this season. It's the Bruins' sixth-straight season with at least 10 wins in Conference play. Among UCLA's victories this season are three wins against ranked opponents, including a road 73-71 victory over then-No. 7 Oregon that snapped the Ducks' 27-game winning-streak (Jan. 3). The win over Oregon also extended the Bruins' streak of defeating a top-10 opponent in each of the last six years. Close also led UCLA to a victory over then-No. 5 Stanford, knocking off the Cardinal, 70-66, in Santa Cruz, Calif.

Close, who is in her 10th year at the helm of UCLA's program, made history earlier in the season, as the Bruins' road victory against Arizona State (Dec. 9) marked her 200th-career win. She became only the third coach in program history to achieve the milestone, following Billie Moore (296-181)

LAUSD Teams Up with the Los Angeles Rams and Hollywood Park to Offer a Vaccination Site For All School Staff in LA County

Los Angeles Unified today announced a collaboration with the Los Angeles Rams, Hollywood Park and the City of Inglewood to operate a large-scale vaccination site on the grounds of SoFi Stadium which could serve any of the public and private school teachers, administrators and staff in Los Angeles County from schools that wish to participate.

Los Angeles Unified plans to work closely with Los Angeles County on this program. On February 15, Los Angeles Unified and its partners, including Anthem Blue Cross and Cedars-Sinai, sent a letter to County Department of Public Health Director Dr. Barbara Ferrer and Los Angeles County Office of Education Superintendent Dr. Debra Duardo seeking authorization to operate the site and help the more than 1 million students and tens of thousands of teachers and staff in Los Angeles County return to school safely.

"Returning students, teachers and staff to campus in the safest way possible is essential to the well-being of our entire community," said Los Angeles Unified Superintendent Austin Beutner. "A bus driver takes students to school, a principal unlocks the front door, a teacher leads in the classroom, a cafeteria worker prepares lunch and a custodian keeps the school clean – they're all connected at school. A dedicated vaccination site and comprehensive effort for the education community would allow schools to re-open sooner and in a more coordinated manner."

"In speaking with Superintendent Beutner and Inglewood Mayor Butts about how we can best support our community during this time, it became clear that assisting schools to reopen safely would have wide-ranging impacts for all Angelenos," said Los Angeles Rams COO Kevin Demoff. "We are grateful to all our partners who have come together to develop a game plan that would allow us to operate this vaccination site at Hollywood Park safely and efficiently and serve educators all across the county."

"We have seen a need within our community, and we are working alongside Los Angeles Unified and its partners to provide a solution," said Jason Gannon, managing director, SoFi Stadium and Hollywood Park. "We are proud to offer the space and infrastructure needed for a mass vaccination site for school staff. This is another critical step to keep Angelenos safe and healthy in our fight against COVID-19."

Inglewood Mayor James T. Butts has committed to seek the support of the County Board of Supervisors for this effort to protect school staff and bring the children of Inglewood and Los Angeles County back to the classroom.

In accordance with its plan, 600 Los Angeles Unified school nurses and other licensed healthcare professionals would administer the vaccine and assist those who may have an adverse reaction. In addition, Anthem would provide volunteer clinical personnel to supplement the Los Angeles Unified staff and Cedars-Sinai is already providing training to support this vaccination effort. The Hollywood Park site, when fully operational, would be able to vaccinate more than 10,000 people a day.

The operation would use a technology and data system that can register individuals, schedule vaccination appointments and share the data with appropriate authorities.

"Anthem Blue Cross is proud to support LAUSD's COVID-19 vaccination efforts and help ensure those who want to receive the vaccine can get it," said Beth Andersen, President, Anthem

Blue Cross.

"Safely reopening schools is a key step in improving our community's physical, mental and economic health," said Arthur J. Ochoa, JD, Chief Advancement Officer for Cedars-Sinai. "Cedars-Sinai has a long history of supporting Los Angeles Unified in its work to serve the children and families of Los Angeles and we are ready to support Los Angeles Unified in its effort to create a Super Point of Distribution so they can vaccinate school educators and staff."

"The fact is that schools never closed for thousands of frontline education workers who have been sanitizing schools, preparing meals and running COVID-19 testing centers," said Max Arias, SEIU Local 99 Executive Director. "Many of these essential school workers are people of color who have been hardest hit by the pandemic. The opening of this vaccination site would mark a major step forward to protect our most vulnerable communities and begin the process for an eventual safe return to in-person classes."

Courtney Moore Joins Dodgers as Vice President of Diversity, Equity and Inclusion

The Los Angeles Dodgers today announced the hiring of Courtney Moore for the newly created position of Vice President of Diversity, Equity and Inclusion.

Most recently, she was the Director of Diversity and Inclusion at the law firm of Munger, Tolles & Olson, where Moore was responsible for creating and implementing the strategy to enhance the firm's culture of inclusion.

"These are difficult and challenging times marked by a global pandemic, racial dissension and societal inequities," said Moore. "In this climate, I am incredibly honored to work for a pioneering organization that understands the importance of amplifying diversity & inclusion. I look forward to meeting my colleagues and getting to work!"

Moore also has several years of experience in talent acquisition having worked for Special Counsel, Inc and The Hollins Group in direct hire corporate placements. Additionally, she has experience in the sports industry as the Broadcast and Special Events Coordinator for the Chicago White Sox.

Kirsten Watson Joins Dodger Broadcast Team

The Los Angeles Dodgers today announced the addition of Kirsten Watson to their broadcast team. In her role as a reporter and host, Watson will contribute to the Dodgers' SportsNet LA game broadcasts and studio programming as well as pre- and postgame coverage on both television and radio.

Watson joins the Dodgers following two years as a reporter and host with Spectrum SportsNet, where she appeared on pre-, post- and in-game broadcasts of the Los Angeles Lakers, Los Angeles Sparks and South Bay Lakers while also co-hosting the network's Lakeshow studio program. She also currently serves as a producer for the National Football League, creating localized content for international markets, hosting its Game Recognize Game series and organizing international trips for NFL players for content and media opportunities. Watson also hosted Monday Night Football on Channel 5 in the UK, an international broadcast in partnership with NFL Network.

"I am excited to continue my passion as a storyteller with the Los Angeles Dodgers," said Watson. "To have the opportunity to be a member of and represent one of the most iconic sports franchises is an honor."

Following the completion of her Master's degree at Columbia Journalism School, Watson was awarded the Stuart Scott Internship-Scholarship from the National Association of Black Journalists and ESPN, where she produced video packages for SportsCenter and NFL Live. Watson also earned her Bachelor's degree from Columbia and was a member of the school's volleyball team.

"We feel that our broadcast is one of the best in sports and know that Kirsten can help make it even stronger," said Lon Rosen, Dodger Executive Vice President and Chief Marketing Officer. "We're excited for Dodger fans to get to know her."
